

About Us

Contributed by tahir

Downsizer.net is a not-for-profit online community, a resource for people who want to live more sustainably.

This can take many forms, and of course not everyone agrees on the hows and whys but we hope everybody will find something useful on the site.

We encourage debate and there are many viewpoints expressed on the site, (these are individual members views, NOT those of Downsizer.net) in the articles:

And of course on the very friendly forum:

One of our aims is to encourage small scale enterprise, to enable this there are several ways of advertising products and services on Downsizer.net. The first thing you need to do is register:

Click here to register

Once registered you can submit adverts for the Traders section:

Click here to see listed Traders

These are subject to approval before listing, please email us if you have any queries as to whether your business is suitable for listing, once approved your account can (on request) be upgraded to allow you to edit your own listings

If you have any small items for sale, barter or swap you can list them in the Trading Post on the forum:
